A Magnificent Demonstration!

The Republican Masses in Motion!!

The largest and most enthusiastic political gathering we have ever seen in Milwaukee, assembled last evening at Albany Hall, to respond to the nominations of LINCOLN and HAMLIN. When the meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock, the vast Hall was filled to repletion, and hundreds turned away from the doors unable to gain admission.

The meeting was organized, on motion of Mr. WINFIELD SMITH, by the selection of ALEXANDER MITCHELL as President, assisted by ten Vice Presidents and five Secretaries. Mr. MITCHELL, on taking the chair, was loudly applauded, and introduced the business of the evening with a few brief and appropriate remarks. The meeting was addressed in eloquent terms, by Governor RANDALL, Lt. Governor NOBLE and CARL SCHURZ. A series of spirited resolutions, reported by the committee, were adopted by acclamation, as was also one, recommending JOHN F POTTER as a suitable candidate for re-election as the Representative from our First Congressional District.

At half-past ten o'clock the meeting adjourned with six rousing cheers for LINCOLN and HAMLIN and three more for JOHN F. POTTER. Let our friends throughout the State rest assured that all is well in Milwaukee. Never before have the Republicans of this city opened the campaign in such strength and spirit as they did last night.—Our watchword, now and henceforth is, LINCOLN and VICTORY!

News Digest.

Poisoning cases are becoming very frequent in New England, the last case being that of a man named MOORE, who has been arrested at Manchester, N. H., on a charge of poisoning his wife, daughter, son-in-law and servant, by placing white lead in flour.

Senator SEWARD appeared in his seat in the Senate, on Monday, and was warmly greeted by both Democrats and Republicans.

Another slaver, having some 450 negroes on board, has been captured on the coast of Cuba.

GOOD FOR THE LUMBERMEN.—The heavy rains of the past few days have raised the streams in the North-Western section of our State, and the logs are beginning to come down. Black River has risen between four and five feet. The La Crosse Republican estimates that about thirty million feet of logs, valued at $150,000, were "tied up" by the low water. It is now thought that most of the manufactured lumber and a good share of the logs on Black River, will be brought out during the present "fresh." This will be an important help to North-Western Wisconsin.

KNOCKED DOWN DURING A THUNDER STORM.—Early on Tuesday morning, a farmer named FOWLE and his two sons, while attending a sick horse in a field in the town of Oak Creek, were struck down by lightning. The storm was a fearful one, and the thunder of the most terrific kind. Mr. FOWLE and his two sons were not injured, which, no doubt, is owing to the fact of their being natives of Sussex, England, where TOM SAYERS was born.

DEATH OF L. P. RISING.—We regret to observe, in the Viroqua Expositor, the announcement of the death of Mr. L. P. RISING, formerly of New York and more recently of Sparta, Monroe county. Mr. RISING was a veteran printer and a zealous friend of popular education. He died of typhoid fever, on the 26th inst., after ten days illness, and leaves a wife and four children to mourn his loss.

COMPLIMENT TO A BRAVE GIRL.—The Cincinnati Inquirer, of the 20th inst., says: A subscription paper was started on 'Change yesterday for the benefit of Miss METZKER, the young lady teacher in the Fourteenth District School, who was badly injured by falling bricks while standing at the door to prevent the children from rushing into the street during the tornado on Monday afternoon. The paper and funds are in the hands of Mr. TORRENCE, President of the Chamber of Commerce.

HOLLAND consumes about forty millions of pounds of tobacco every year. As the population numbers about three millions, every man, woman and child can have as their allowance a little more than thirteen pounds a year. About sixteen million pounds go from this country there.

WE LEARN from the Grand Rapids Eagle that a short time since, in the town of Cascade, upwards of one hundred and fifty sheep were killed or maimed by dogs; and yet people will keep the worthless curs, regardless of the damage done.

ATTEMPTED POISONING.—A girl in the employ of Mr Dunham, attempted to destroy her life last week, by taking a quantity of Kramore.

She was found by some of the family after dark, lying upon the garden walk, in a state of stupor, and upon examination it was soon ascertained she had taken poison. Medical aid was sent for; in the mean time, some oil was administered, which, no doubt, saved for the time the life of the unfortunate girl.

She lies in a very critical state, her mouth and throat being in a bad condition from the effects of the poison.

The cause is attributed to mental derangement. For some time she has given way to fits of melancholy, and hinted at self-destruction.—Racine Advocate.

A DESPERATE affray occurred on the packet ship Robert F. Storer, which left New York for Liverpool on the 23d inst. Some of the men around the forecastle were discovered to be intoxicated, when the ship got abreast of Governor's Island, and an effort having been made to close the forecastle, they attacked the officers, fatally wounding Mr. Mitchell, the steward, and shooting the mate, Mr. Craig, in the arm. The mutineers were arrested by aid of the Harbor police and lodged in jail. Smith, their ringleader, was severely wounded.

Personal Habits of Abraham Lincoln.

From the Chicago Press & Tribune.

In his personal habits, Mr. Lincoln is as simple as a child. He loves a good dinner and eats with the appetite which goes with a great brain; but his food is plain and nutritious. He never drinks intoxicating liquors of any sort—not even a glass of wine. He is not addicted to tobacco in any of its shapes. He never was accused of a licentious act in all his life. He never uses profane language. A friend says that once, when in a towering rage in consequence of the efforts of certain parties to perpetrate a fraud on the State, he was heard to say, "They shan't do it, d—n 'em!" but beyond an expression of that kind, his bitterest feelings never carry him. He never gambles; we doubt if he ever indulges in any games of chance.

He is particularly cautious about incurring pecuniary obligations for any purpose whatever; and in debt he is never content until the score is discharged. We presume he owes no man a dollar. He never speculates. The rage for sudden acquisition never took hold of him. His gains from his profession have been moderate, but sufficient for his purposes. While others have dreamed of gold, he has been in pursuit of knowledge. In all his dealings he has the reputation of being generous but exact, and, above all, religiously honest. He would be a bold man who would say that Abraham Lincoln ever wronged any one out of a cent, or ever spent a dollar that he had not honestly earned. His struggles in early life have made him careful of money; but his generosity with his own is proverbial. He is a regular attendant upon religious worship, and though not a communicant, is a pewholder and liberal supporter of the Presbyterian church in Springfield, to which Mrs. Lincoln belongs.

He is a scrupulous teller of the truth—too exact in his notions to suit the atmosphere of Washington as it now is. His enemies may say that he tells Black Republican lies; but no man ever charged that, in a professional capacity, or as a citizen dealing with his neighbors, he would depart from the scriptural command. At home he lives like a gentleman of modest means and simple tastes. A good sized house of wood, simply but tastefully furnished, surrounded by trees and flowers, is his own, and there he lives at peace with himself, the idol of his family, and for his honesty, ability and patriotism, the admiration of his countrymen.

If Mr. Lincoln is elected President he will carry but little that is ornamental to the White House. The country must accept his sincerity, his ability and his honesty, in the mold in which they are cast. He will not be able to make as polite a bow as Frank Pierce, but he will not commence anew the agitation of the Slavery question by recommending to Congress any Kansas-Nebraska bills. He may not preside at the Presidential dinners which distinguish the "venerable public functionary," Mr. Buchanan; but he will not create the necessity for a Covode Committee and the disgraceful revelations of Cornelius Wendell. He will take to the Presidential chair just the qualities which the country now demands to save it from impending destruction—ability that no man can question, firmness that nothing can overbear, honesty that never has been impeached, and patriotism that never despairs.

The Prospects of Sicily.

From the London Times, May 12.

On the night of the 5th inst., General Garibaldi embarked with 2,000 men on board two merchant steamers at Genoa, and is supposed to have, by this time, landed in Sicily, or in some point of the Calabrian coast, in aid of the insurrection. Such an enterprise is beyond the limits of either praise or blame. It is useless to judge it by the common rules which we apply to political transactions. To reproach the partisan General with violating international law, by taking up arms against a State at peace with his own, would, in the opinion of his admirers, be as puerile as to charge him with piracy for seizing the company's steamers. The man, the cause, and the circumstances are so extraordinary that they must be judged by themselves. Success will stamp Garibaldi as a General and statesman of the highest rank; defeat, ruin, and death will cause him to be remembered as a Quixotic adventurer, of dauntless courage, but weak judgment, who has thrown away his life in a desperate filibustering attempt. The expedition to Sicily may in future be ranked with William of Orange's landing in England, or it may be ranked with Murat's landing in Calabria, all we can be certain of is the heroic courage of the man who has attempted it.

Of the prospect of the Sicilians we cannot speak sanguinely. The insurrection appears, indeed, far from being at an end. The Sicilians seem to have risen against their oppressors with all the fury which years of tyranny can inspire. The royal troops have been held at bay by levies of citizens, hastily armed and almost wholly undisciplined.—Men of all ranks and all professions have joined the movement. The priests themselves have forgotten their traditional reverence for authority, and the wealthy have been content to stake their all in a struggle for the independence of the land; the old have been carried away by the enthusiasm of youth; even soldiers and officials have in some instances abandoned the principles of caste under the impulse of patriotic feelings. But still a regular army is a very powerful machine. There is hardly an instance in the history of the world of a people withstanding an armed force without either foreign help or military disaffection. The Neapolitan force is large, well appointed, and not ill commanded.

That jealousy between soldiers and civilians which, since 1858, has arisen on the continent—that esprit de corps which would make a French or Austrian regiment delighted to charge a Parisian or a Viennese mob, will no doubt animate the King's troops against the Sicilian insurgents. No great distance, through a very difficult country, is to be traversed. The chief towns are accessible by sea, and the sea is at the command of the King's fleet. Troops have been sent in a few hours from Naples and Palermo, and reinforcements can be poured in as long as necessary. The chances are, therefore, strongly against the success of the movement. It is quite possible that if the communication with the main land were cut off the insurgents would be able to hold their own against the troops already in the island; but, if the King is allowed to use the whole strength of the State in coercing his refractory province, we think the cause which Garibaldi has espoused is desperate enough.

LINCOLN AND HAMLIN IN RACINE.—One of the largest as well as one of the most enthusiastic political gatherings ever held in Racine convened at Titus Hall last Thursday evening, to ratify the nominations of "Honest Old Abe" and Hamlin.

The political observer cannot fail to notice that more real enthusiasm and interest is awakened throughout the country, at the start, than was ever seen before. Men, that have for years scarcely taken any notice of politics, are alive, and at work, believing that in the election of "Honest Old Abe" rests the only salvation for the country.

Differences of opinion in the choice of men are forgotten, and the ticket as it is, is accepted by all classes of men who desire to see the nation relieved from that political demoralization, into which bogus Democracy has plunged it.—Racine Advocate.

PIKE'S PEAK GOLD.—A cattle drover named G. W. Curtis, brought in about $7,000 of gold dust from Denver to-day. It was part of the proceeds of a drove of 700 cattle, which he, with six hands, drove to Denver from Fort Belknap, Texas. The distance between these points is only 600 miles; but to avoid Camanches and Kiowas, 1,200 miles have to be traversed. Mr. C. started to Texas this evening for another drove, as the business is profitable. Some 400 head of this drove re-sold at 10c net. The highest offered in St. Louis for this gold dust (some 400 ounces) was $15 75 per ounce; but as $16 was allowed for it at Denver, the offer was refused, and it was shipped to the mint at Philadelphia, by Robert Campbell & Co.—Thus do we constantly see golden returns from the new mines on our western frontier, and a market is there had for the surplus beef, pork, flour, etc., of the West.—St. Louis Democrat, Monday.

THE WEBBS.—The WEBB sisters are now playing at Chicago. The Press & Tribune of yesterday says:

"The Webb sisters commenced an engagement at McVicker's Theatre on Monday before a very respectable house. These young ladies display superior talent in the range of characters which they personate—and if the theatre-going public will but give them a fair hearing, they will be sure to fill the house from 'turret to foundation,' by the force of real merit. They play Smike and Mrs. Squeers in Nicholas Nickelby, and in the farce of the Manager's Daughter to-night."

New Books.

THE THRONE OF DAVID; OR THE REBELLION OF PRINCE ABSALOM. By the Reverend J. H. Ingraham. Philadelphia: G. G. Evans.

Mr. INGRAHAM has introduced a new style of popular reading. His "Prince of the House of David" was the first of a series of biblical stories more intensely interesting than all the productions of the established school of romancers. He possesses, in a wonderful degree, the talent of writing in an unusually clear and happy style; and when he brings before us the old Biblical characters and we hear them talk and feel ourselves surrounded by the primitive simplicity of the early times—as this writer alone can picture them for us—the charm is great. Few books have been so deservedly popular as the "Prince of the House of David," and few books have found their way into the families where this has been read. The novelty of making the heroes of Holy Writ the dramatis personæ of a tale seemed to please saint and sinner, and the consequence was everybody read the book, and its influence for good must have been incredible. The "Throne of David" is the third of a series, of which "The Pillar of Fire" was the second. It is a beautiful history of David as a shepherd, poet, musician, warrior, king and prophet, and its perusal must have the effect of causing many to turn to the Bible with a newly awakened interest.

Mr. EVANS, of gift book notoriety, deserves great credit for the handsome manner in which the work is got out.

THE carefully spiteful man of the Wisconsin keeps copying doubtful notices of the DEHAVEN circus from the country press, and adding the following editorial remarks:

"The above is the one that the SENTINEL recommended to the people of the State as a most excellent circus, and reprimanded the Wisconsin for calling it a humbug affair."

What sweet revenge is this! to be published two or three times a week. Oh, vindictive but important CLODIUS! if thou wert not so malicious, thou wouldst be severe.

It is only necessary to state that the SENTINEL never "recommended" DEHAVEN'S circus to the people of the State. That is one of POTTER'S vagaries.

INAUGURATION OF THE HORSE RAIL ROAD.—Yesterday afternoon, about 5 o'clock, two cars of our City Rail Road Company, drawn by four horses each, started on their first trip from Walker's Point Bridge to Division Street. The cars are neat, airy and comfortable, and were crowded with invited guests, all anxious to take the first ride on the Horse Rail Road. As they came up East Water Street, they were heartily cheered by the large concourse assembled on the sidewalks to note their progress; and the same manifestations accompanied them throughout the trip. In a few days, the track will be extended some ways up Prospect Street; and meanwhile the cars will run regularly from Walker's Point Bridge to Division Street. The Horse Railroad is bound to be a popular institution.

"DAILY COMMERCIAL CIRCULAR."—The first number of this publication was issued yesterday, embracing a very complete report of the doings in the produce market, the receipts and shipments of flour and grain, and a wholesale prices current. It is published by Messrs. GODFREY & FRIESE, commercial editors of the News and Free Democrat, thereby combining the commercial talent employed on both of these papers. They intend issuing two of these circulars daily, in order to more fully meet the wants of grain dealers in this respect than has heretofore been done; one between 11 and 12 A. M., and another early in the afternoon.

"THE means employed are simple but powerful—the end to be obtained most desirable." Such is the motto of a simple practical treatise published by Dr. MELVILLE on the Topical Treatment of Pulmonary Diseases, and which we commend to the attention of our readers. It is written for popular reading and will well repay a perusal. It is time that some efficient method of treating consumptive diseases was discovered, and the effort made by the writer is a step in that direction.

FIRE.—At about a quarter past nine last evening, a fire was discovered in the composing room of the Daily See Bote office, on Mason street. The alarm was promptly given, the firemen were soon on the ground, and although the fire had gained considerable headway when first discovered, it was confined to the room in which it broke out. It was impossible to ascertain the amount of loss at the time of going to press, but it cannot be large.

MUNICIPAL COURT, MAY 30.—Edward Mullen, vagrancy; fined $10 and costs.

Felix McKey, drunk; discharged.

Gottlieb Mum, assault and battery; discharged, and complainant made to pay the costs.

Henry Eiring, slaughtering within the city limits; case continued to June 2d.

John Wallschleger, larceny of trees; settled by mutual consent.

THE MEMBERS of Engine Company No. 5 deserve especial credit for the tasty manner in which their machine was "got up" at the last inspection. JOHNNY FISHBACK is the individual who got up the broom. Mr. C. BIERBACH takes as much pride in No. 5 as any fireman may now reasonably take in our excellent department.

W. E. MICK'S Lubricating mixture is a valuable invention. We have used it for some time on the machinery in the Sentinel office, and have found it to be far superior to oil—from the fact that it will not gum—and a smaller amount prevents friction. We can safely recommend it.

LAKE HOUSE.—This house, situated on the south side of the river, is fast attaining a favorable position with the traveling public, and more especially with the farming community. Its well arranged barns, which are among the best in the city, are a special attraction with that class of farmers who bring their produce into town with teams, being free from any danger of fire, and also having a good supply of water, and the best of fodder always on hand, which is so essential in order to gratify the taste of those humane farmers who think quite as much of securing good quarters for their teams, as they do for themselves. Its tables are supplied with every variety of the most wholesome food, and for a dollar a day house, we venture to say that no better kept Hotel can be found in the State. JAMES TOLE, Esq., is the popular proprietor. We are, indeed, glad that it is meeting with the success it deserves, and we cheerfully recommend it to both the traveling public and farming community.

A NUISANCE.—The alley running North and South, between East Water and Main streets, daily empties into Wisconsin street a stream of blood from some slaughter house. A summer's sun upon this bloody nuisance will render the most populous and busiest portion of the city anything but agreeable.

SEVENTH WARD HIGH SCHOOL.—The Seventh Ward High School commences its present term on Monday, May 28.

Students will be received at any time during the term, upon application to the Principal.

Students will be charged, from the time of entering, at the rate of $6, $8 and $10 per term, according to studies.

OF 1860 OPEN!!

Let Every Republican Prepare for the Conflict!!

Circulate Truth among the People!!

THE WEEKLY SENTINEL
Six Months for Less than Cost of Paper and Printing!!!

READ AND BE CONVINCED!

The present campaign is to be a memorable one. The battle will be fought zealously between the friends and the enemies of Freedom, and the ground contested inch by inch. In view of these facts, it is apparent that the dissemination of Republican papers and documents becomes of vast and vital importance. In order to furnish the WEEKLY SENTINEL to the people of the North-West, during the Campaign of 1860, we have concluded to offer this paper, FROM THE 1ST OF JUNE TO THE 1ST OF DECEMBER, at the following unprecedented liberal terms:

| | |
|---|---|
| One Copy for | $0 50 |
| Twenty Copies, (to one address) | $0 00 |
| Fifty " " | $20 00 |
| One Hundred do " " | $35 00 |

These terms will barely cover the cost of paper before it is printed; but we have determined to put the price so low that every individual Republican, or organized Club, in this or adjoining States, will use their best endeavors to scatter the SENTINEL broadcast in their particular localities, and thus accomplish more than by the circulation of ten times as many documents in any other form. Every Campaign subscriber will receive the full returns of the election in November.

We need not urge upon our Republican friends the importance of placing this sheet in the hands of all, be no voter, or family in the State, be without the SENTINEL during the Campaign. Wheresoever facts are read and the people have access to truth, Republicanism prevails.

Send in your orders as early as possible.

DR. HENRY MELVILLE

MAY BE CONSULTED DAILY AT HIS rooms in the NEWHALL HOUSE.

Twenty-five years of active professional life have strengthened his early convictions, that it is only by concentrating his attention on the management of a special class of diseases, the physician can hope to obtain an extended experience, a competent knowledge of their nature, or achieve success in their treatment and cure.

The recent improvements in the method of detecting and treating the diseases of the respiratory organs, are such as to warrant the hope that medical science will no longer suffer reproach from the want of success which has heretofore characterized the administration of medicines by the stomach.

DR. MELVILLE will be happy to afford information to all who desire it on the method pursued by him in treating Catarrh, Bronchitis, Pneumonia, Consumption and Asthma. His treatise on "TOPICAL MEDICATION IN PULMONARY DISEASES," may be obtained at the bookstores, or on application at the NEWHALL HOUSE.

The Homestead Bill.

There is great reason to fear that this beneficent measure, which has passed the House of Representatives by a decisive majority, will be killed by the Democratic Senate.—The bill, as originally adopted by the House, enacts that any person who is the head of a family, or of the age of 21 years, who is, or has filed an intention of becoming, a citizen of the United States, may enter, free of cost, provided it is for his or her exclusive benefit, 160 acres of unappropriated public lands, on which a pre-emption claim has been filed, by such person, or which may be subject to pre-emption, at $1,25, or less per acre; or 80 acres may be entered at $2,50 per acre. The certificate for this land is not to be given for five years from the date to entry, and then, or within two years afterward, the person making the entry, or the widow, or the widower, or the infant child, or other heir, shall receive the patent, by paying $10, on proof that the land was occupied for the five years by the person in whose name the entry was made, or by the heirs.

In case the heirs are infants, the claim may be held or sold for their benefit by the executor, administrator, or guardian. The land thus acquired can in no event become liable for the satisfaction of any debts contracted prior to the issue of the patent. No person is permitted to make more than one entry. The settler loses his claim if it is abandoned more than six months; and all persons who have heretofore filed applications for the pre-emption right are entitled to the benefit of this act, and the act is not to interfere with existing rights.

In the Senate, a very different bill was substituted for the above. The privilege is limited to heads of families who are citizens, or who have become citizens before a patent is claimed. This cuts off young men not heads of families, and persons of foreign birth who have not yet obtained their second papers. Instead of being granted free of cost, the Senate bill requires a payment of 25 cts. per acre for the homestead; and no entries can be made on land reserved to be sold, or entered at $2 50 per acre—which includes a large and valuable portion of the public domain. In these and other particulars, the Senate bill is much inferior to the one adopted by the House. We are glad to see that the House, by a majority of two to one, have rejected the Senate substitute, and insist upon their own bill. It is greatly to be hoped that the Senate will now yield and pass the bill as it came from the House. The thanks of the landless and homeless working men of the country await the friends and supporters of the Free Homestead bill.

Douglas and Broderick.

In the whole list of Democratic Senators, there was not one who stood up so boldly and unflinchingly in defence of Senator Douglas and what the South term his "heresies," as Mr. BRODERICK, of California. He was always ready and willing to back the Illinois Senator against his assailants, and to confront and defy the BUCHANAN Administration in its efforts to crush him and whip DOUGLAS back into the traces. The sad story of BRODERICK'S death is familiar to all. He left his dying testimony to the fact that he had been hunted down and murdered, because he dared to oppose a corrupt Administration and the extension of Slavery. It was thought strange, when his death was announced in the U. S. Senate, that Mr. DOUGLAS should have sat silent; uttering no word of sorrow for his dead friend; offering no tribute to his memory. But still more strange does it seem that DOUGLAS should have voted to confirm CALHOUN BENHAM—the second of TERRY in the murderous duel which cost BRODERICK his life—as U. S. District Attorney for California. That Mr. BUCHANAN should have conferred this appointment upon BENHAM will surprise none who recall to mind the fact that he lavished his Executive favors upon the blood-stained Border Ruffians of Kansas, as a reward for their efforts to force Slavery upon an unwilling people. But that DOUGLAS should have voted for the confirmation of a man, who had aided and abetted in the murder of his best friend, must fill every generous mind with disgust and indignation.

The Public Domain.

During the past twenty-seven years no less than one hundred and twenty-two millions of acres of the public lands have been sold, yielding to the U. S. Treasury the sum of one hundred and thirty-six and a half millions of dollars. Within the same period upwards of fifty-six millions of acres have been granted to the different States, the share of Wisconsin amounting to 3,449,238 acres. The following summary exhibits the whole quantity of unoffered surveyed land ready for market September 30th, 1859:

| | Acres. | | Acres. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Missouri | 12,922,582 | California | 14,848,071 |
| Louisiana | 879,266 | Minnesota | 12,624,862 |
| Alabama | 90,580 | Oregon | 4,125,960 |
| Michigan | 569,326 | Washington | 1,650,752 |
| Arkansas | 5,078,478 | Kansas | 5,019,478 |
| Florida | 3,966,795 | Nebraska | 8,851,070 |
| Iowa | 2,229,642 | Utah | 1,067,550 |
| Wisconsin | 2,826,642 | New Mexico | 1,788,582 |
| Total acres | | | 86,970,941 |

There are yet many millions of the Public Lands left, where, if the Republican policy prevails, thousands and tens of thousands of the laboring classes will find FREE HOMESTEADS.

THE SENATE IN 1861.—The terms of five Democratic, seven Republican, and one American Senators will expire in 1861. Three of the Republicans have already been re-elected, and all the others, or Republicans in their places, will be, unless Illinois fails to redeem the pledges made in her behalf, of which we have no fear. They have a reasonable hope of gaining four in other States, which, with one already gained in Ohio, will give the Republicans, in the new Senate commencing March 4th, 1861, thirty-two Senators, Democrats thirty-five and Americans one.

THE OZAUKEE REPUBLICAN.—The wide-awake Republicans of Port Washington have started a neat and spicy paper, which will be under the editorial charge of Mr. G. W. FOSTER, a zealous and faithful laborer in the Republican vineyard. One page of the paper is published in German, and all four pages are well filled. We wish the Republican ample success and commend it to the hearty support of the friends of the good cause in Ozaukee and adjoining counties.

THE STATE FAIR.—We learn from the Madison Journal that Senator DOUGLAS has declined the invitation of our State Agricultural Society to deliver the annual address in September. The Society have since invited HENRY WARD BEECHER to deliver the address. It is to be hoped that Mr. BEECHER will accept.

Reservation of the Public Lands for Settlers.

The House passed a bill last Thursday, which is of greater importance to settlers, in many respects, than the Homestead bill. It is the proposition of Mr. GROW, which passed the House last year, but failed in the Senate, to reserve all public lands for ten years after their survey, subject to entry and pre-emption by actual settlers previous to offering them for public sale. The design, of course, is to enable settlers to obtain choice lands before the speculators have monopolized them all. The provisions of this bill, in connection with those of the Homestead, will enable all persons who may desire to lead an agricultural life, and can raise money enough to improve and stock a farm, to secure a good homestead of the best land, free of cost. The fact that the improvement and stocking of a farm involves a much greater amount of labor and care than the first fee simple of the land, completely sweeps away the argument that the gift of the land will encourage laziness and indolence. The great advantage of the gift is in the fact that it enables every man, however poor, to hold every day's labor which he puts upon his land. No one can take it from him. He may labor for others three-fourths of the time, and putting away the other fourth upon the pre-emption, it remains there forever an heritage for his posterity.

A Speech of Abraham Lincoln.

The following extract from one of Abraham Lincoln's speeches in reply to Douglas, has a curious pertinency to the present time, when he is so unanimously nominated by a united party for President, while Douglas cannot get the nomination of even the distracted and disorganized faction called Democracy:

"There is still another disadvantage under which we labor, and to which I will ask your attention. It arises out of the relative positions of the two persons who stand before the State as candidates for the Senate.—Senator Douglas is of world-wide renown.—All the anxious politicians of his party, or who have been of his party for years past, have been looking upon him as certainly, at no distant day, to be President of the United States. They have seen in his round, jolly, fruitful face, post-offices, land-offices, marshalships and cabinet appointments, chargeships and foreign missions, bursting and sprouting out in wonderful exuberance, ready to be laid hold of by their greedy hands.—And as they have been looking upon this attractive picture so long, they cannot, in the little distraction that has taken place in the party, bring themselves to give up the charming hope; but with greedier anxiety they rush about him, sustain him, give him marches, triumphal entries, and receptions beyond what even in the days of his highest prosperity they could have brought about in his favor. On the contrary nobody has ever expected me to be President. In my poor, lean, lank face, nobody has ever seen that any cabbages were sprouting out. These are disadvantages, all taken together, that the Republicans labor under. We have to fight this battle upon principle, and upon principle alone. I am, in a certain sense, made the standard-bearer in behalf of the Republicans. I was made so merely because there had to be some one so placed—I being in nowise preferable to any other one of the twenty-five—perhaps a hundred we have in the Republican ranks. Then I say I wish it to be distinctly understood and borne in mind, that we have to fight this battle without many—perhaps without any—of the external aids which are brought to bear against us. So I hope those with whom I am surrounded have principle enough to nerve themselves for the task and leave nothing undone, that can be fairly done, to bring about the right result."

Slavery and Snakes.

The following is one of LINCOLN'S illustrations in his late speech at New Haven.—Speaking of the rights and wrongs of slavery, he said:

"The other policy is one that squares with the idea that Slavery is wrong, and it consists in doing everything that we ought to do if it is wrong. Now I don't wish to be misunderstood, nor to leave a gap down to be misrepresented even. I don't say we ought to attack it where it exists. To me it seems that if we were to form a government anew, in view of the actual presence of slavery, we should find it necessary to frame just such a government as our forefathers did; giving to the slaveholder the entire control where the system is established, while the people possessed the power to restrain it from going outside those limits. [Applause.] From the necessities of the case we should be compelled to form just such a government as our blessed fathers gave us; and surely if they have so made it, that adds another reason why we should let slavery alone where it exists.

"If I saw a venomous snake crawling in the road, a man would say I might seize the nearest stick and kill it, but if I found that snake in bed with my children, that would be another question. [Laughter.] I might hurt the children more than the snake, and the snake might bite them. [Laughter and long applause.] Much more, if I found it in bed with my neighbor's children, and I had bound myself by solemn compact not to meddle with his children under any circumstances, it would become me to let that particular mode of killing the gentleman alone. [Great laughter.] But if there is a newly made up bed, to which the children are to be taken, and it was proposed to take a batch of young snakes and put them there with them, I take it no man would say there was a question how I ought to decide. [Prolonged applause and cheers.]

"That is just the case! The New Territories are the newly-made beds to which our children are to go, and it lies with the nation to say whether they shall have the snakes mixed up with them, or not. It does seem as if there could not be much hesitation as to what our policy should be. [Applause.]

What Virginia Says.

The Richmond Enquirer, which gives law to Virginia and speaks, generally, for Democracy South, has this to say about the nomination of DOUGLAS:

"The friends of Mr. Douglas, by persisting in their demands, must bring defeat upon the party. If they should be successful at Baltimore, the party will be defeated at the polls. It is insulting to the Southern people to suppose that the fears of Black Republicanism will induce them to support a platform which they opposed on principle. Let the consequences be ever so disastrous to the Federal Union, the South will not yield its objections to Squatter Sovereignty.

"It matters but little whether the degradation of the South proceeds from Black Republican Congressional destruction or a Squatter Sovereignty territorial denial of its rights.

"We sincerely hope that the friends of Mr. Douglas will yield to the objections urged by sovereign States, and unite the party to withstand the assaults of a sectional organization that avows the 'irrepressible conflict.' 'He that troubleth his own house shall inherit the wind.'"

THE OLD GUARD.—The Pittsburg Gazette says: During the last Presidential canvass, the old Whig party was distracted and divided, and many of its members sought refuge in the ranks of the so-called Democracy. We learn by the following from the Lancaster Examiner that our old party friends in that county are returning to their former party associations:

"The Chicago nominees are doing a glorious work in the 'Old Guard' already. Old line Whigs, who, in a moment of kindly, neighborly feeling consented to go for Mr. Buchanan in 1856, are on all sides falling into line in support of that brave old Whig champion in arms, Abraham Lincoln. The signs of the times argue well for an old-fashioned majority of five or six thousand in Lancaster county, no matter who is nominated as the Democratic candidate."

"AN ANTI-DOUGLAS TRIUMPH."—The Board of Supervisors of Waukesha County have, according to well-established precedent, just elected Mr. ANDREW E. ELMORE, the "Sage of Mukwanago," their chairman. Whereupon "A. F. P——" writes, in disgust, to the News, that the choice was effected by all the Republican and two Democratic votes; and that the result will be claimed "as an anti-DOUGLAS triumph." We cannot say whether the Grand Seignor's election will blast the hopes of DOUGLAS at Baltimore, or not; but certain it is that Mr. ELMORE'S business talents, long experience and decided capacity for public life, eminently qualify him for the office of chairman of the Waukesha Board of Supervisors.

THE LAKE SUPERIOR TRADE.—There are now no less than fourteen Steamers engaged in the Lake Superior trade. The Cleveland line consists of eight, the Detroit line of three and the Lake Michigan line of three. In addition to the steamers, it is said that as many as fifty sail vessels will be employed this season, in transporting iron ore from Marquette.

Improvements in the Village of Brodhead.

Correspondence of the Sentinel.

BRODHEAD, GREEN CO., May 28.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—Thinking some account of the doings and prospects of this beautiful prairie city might be interesting to a portion of your readers, I send you the following relating to the progress of events in this neighborhood:

The village, numbering a thousand souls, was started in '56, when all was wild with speculation and, of course, it soon outgrew the wants of the country around; and when the crash came Brodhead suffered extremely in its business interests, and, for a year or two, she rather lost than gained inhabitants. Then the extension of the Southern Wisconsin Railroad to Monroe, fourteen miles west, helped on the downward tendency of matters, and Brodhead sunk from a third-rate Railroad station to a fifth or sixth.

But the enterprising inhabitants of Brodhead had no idea of seeing their town stand still forever, and determined something must be done to create business and attract capital and population. So they naturally turned their eyes to the noble Sugar River, winding its way on the western limits of the village; but there was no available power to be obtained near home; so they determined to convey the water from the Decatur mill-dam, some three miles up stream; a company was immediately formed, a charter obtained, a survey had, which demonstrated the feasibility of the project of creating a grand water-power, with eleven feet absolute head.

For reasons unnecessary to state here, the "Brodhead Hydraulic Company" failed to make a commencement of the work and the enterprise lagged for a season, but was revived last Fall under another form. This time the Company, together with the citizens of the village and vicinity, have agreed to pay a bonus of eight thousand dollars to the parties owning the Decatur mill property to bring the water into the village, for the purpose of milling and machinery; and now the work is under full headway.

The Race intended to contain the whole river, is sixty feet wide on the bottom, eighty on top of the water, and five feet deep, and runs a course of three and one tenth miles before it regains its native bed. The whole cost of excavation, bridges, head-gates, sluices, &c., including all rights interested, will be in the neighborhood of $15,000, but this does not include the cost of the original mill property at Decatur. The time for the completion of the work is the 1st of October, 1861; but there is a probability of its being done sooner—perhaps this present season of cheap labor.

I am afraid I have trespassed too much on your valuable space, so I will conclude by remarking, that Brodhead is destined to flourish, having an excellent country on every side, easy of access, the finest soft water wells—in less than twenty feet depth—an extremely healthy location, and timber in abundance within a few miles. It has six stores in full blast, with more building, two newspapers—one with LINCOLN flying at its mast head, and the other, "poor debbil has got no master." Brodhead can boast of having as fine a church as is in all Green county. And to crown all, it will have a water-power pronounced by good judges to be second to none in the Southern part of the State; it presents a rare chance to capitalists.

Yours truly,

SPECTATOR.

The Japanese.

Special Dispatch to the N. Y. Herald.

WASHINGTON, May 25.

The great Presidential dinner party, at the Executive mansion, in honor of the Japanese Embassy, came off this evening at six o'clock, and lasted two hours. There were present the President and Miss Lane, the two Ambassadors, Censor, Vice Governor, and the next four highest officials, all the members of the Cabinet and their ladies, Captain Dupont, Commander Lee, Captain Porter, the two court interpreters, Namura and Tatisch, the former standing behind the chair of the President, the latter behind the chair of Miss Lane.

The party broke up at half past eight, and at nine o'clock all returned to their rooms, delighted with the hospitalities of Old Buck and the world generally.

This, and the Princes' drawing room at Willard's from eleven to one, is the only Japanese news worth reporting.

It was intended to admit to the Princes' levee only members of Congress and their wives and daughters, but, like similar occasions, numbers whose position did not entitle them to any special consideration crowded themselves in. It was an affair differing in no way from an ordinary levee, where hosts of beautiful women, crinoline, boquets, and perfumed fans predominated, except that there were three Japanese Princes to receive and to be introduced to the guests who came in instead of the President of the United States, or the honored host or hostess of some private mansion.

The Princes Bujen and Owage were dressed in their best talmas, pi jamas and white gaiters, each carrying two gold and diamond hilted swords. They spent a couple of hours in shaking hands with a crowd of eager visitors as they passed from one to another of the magnificent parlors, where they were presented by Captain Dupont to the distinguished visitors.

The Embassy attach great importance to dining with the President to-day, as it is on a par with dining with the Tycoon—an honor none of them dare aspire to.

Some half dozen, including Tommy, went out this morning, and were photographed by Brady.

Dr. Parker, ex-Commissioner to China, called on the Ambassadors to-day, to try and see if they would not recognize him in connection with Chinese missionary affairs, or in some other way; but none of them knew anything about him.

It is decided that the Japanese will visit West Point, Niagara, Boston, the Naval School at Anapolis, and probably other places, before their return.

It is strange and laughable to see how fast these Japanese are becoming Americanized, and to see the perfect coolness and looseness with which they pitch in whenever there is any fun goinn go.

It may seem strange, but such is the fact, that for the last two days hundreds of little girls and big girls, or, as the Japanese call them, "Little American women—very nice," most of them school girls from six to twelve years old, handsome and prettily dressed, have been on the sidewalk under the windows of the Japanese at Willard's, throwing up boquets, candy, and all sorts of knick-knacks, calling out, "Japonee, Japonee, give me a fan, won't you ?" "Japonee, give me a pipe, won't you ?" "Japonee, give me a cent ?" "Japonee, give me your name ?"—At the same time, boys and darkies are calling out, "Say, Jack, does you're mother know you're out ?" "Say, Japonee, do you want to buy some cats ?" "Say, Tycoon, do you like mice,"—and thousands of other questions. The Orientals lay back in their velvet cushioned chairs, laugh, and play all sorts of tricks on the youngsters outside, by throwing out bits of paper—occasionally one would have Japanese candy inside—or else sit curled up on the velvet carpet, smoking, in front of the window.—This and similar scenes were going on at a dozen windows at the same time.

The police do not wish to treat these little and big "American womens" rudely, as the Japanese enjoy it as much as the outsiders.

Milwaukee city is yet alive and going ahead, and with persistency will be, and there such an opportunity for capitalists to invest money, as now offers. One thing I would request: all who have unpaid subscriptions for building will please inform me, so that I can report the same.

H. W. ANGER,

PRACTICAL OPTICIAN,

RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCES TO the Public, that he has imported from RATHENOW, IN GERMANY, and now offers for sale, a large assortment of

of the finest purified flint, which show the clearest and most correct objects. As these glasses permit every ray of light to pass completely through them they will not only suit the partly injured eye, to do the best of eye-work without injury, but will preserve and even strengthen the sight, which very often, by other glasses is ruined.

My SPECTACLES are celebrated for the superior and high optic nature of the glasses, as well as NEATNESS and ELEGANCE of finish, for which they received at the World's Fairs, both Paris and London, the first premiums, (five Gold Medals), being the best specimens on exhibition. Many years experience and a thorough knowledge of optics, enables me to select such glasses for those requiring the same, as will ensure entire satisfaction.

THE STRANGER'S GRAVE.

BY ADA H. THOMAS.

The blacksmith stood in the open door,
And the light gleamed round him there,
As it made gold lines on the brown stone floor,
And played in his damp gray hair.

The fire in the forge had fallen low,
The hammer and anvil were still,
And wavering lines of the sunshine's glow,
Played hither and thither at will.

He stood in the door, with spade in hand,
And looked with his keen blue eye,
Afar on the green and b looming land,
Afar on the shining sky.

Behind him the village lay quiet and still,
Beside him the river rolled on,—
At his left, waved the trees on the grand old hill,
Before slept the graveyard's calm.

Quiet and golden the scene was laid
Under its sunshiny spread;—
And the blacksmith sighed, as he shouldered his spade,
And walked toward the sleeping dead.

He walked with a slow and quiet tread,
That man with the rough, brown face,
And thought how the sunshine over his head,
Hallowed their resting place.

Hallowed and made it seem pleasant to lie,
Unheeding life's feverish pain,
Under the blue of the pure, pure sky,
Under the sunshine and rain.

He walked with his eyes bent thoughtfully down,
And he started as one from a dream,
As he heard a boat come sharply around
On the shore of the running stream.

A man sprung out from the little skiff,
As it grated upon the sand,
And walking up to the old blacksmith,
Took hold of his horny, brown hand.

"A pleasant morning to you, good friend,
A pleasant and busy day!
I've broken a shaft, which I wish you to mend,
Mend strongly, and that straightway."

"Willingly, sir," the blacksmith replied,
"But,"—he pointed to his spade—
"The other day a woman died,
And a grave is now to be made."

A shade fell over the other's brow,
As he thoughtfully turned aside,—
"The morning is swiftly waning now,
And we row against the tide;

"The mill is laying still the while,
Five workmen in idleness too,
And not a person in many a mile
To whom I dare trust it to do.

"Tis not so much for the shaft I care,
Nor so much for the idle mill,
But a broken word is hard to repair,
Far worse than a broken till.

"I never have dug a grave, but will,
Should you tell me how and where,
And while you make perfect the broken mill,
I will do your work with care."

The blacksmith nodded, and led the way
Through the graveyard, silent and green,
Where the shadows thicker and deeper lay,
Under an oak's heavy screen.

"'Tis a stranger who is to be buried," he said,
"One who was poor and unknown,
So I've chosen a pretty place for her head,
Poor soul, 'tis her last, long home."

And he told him how long, and deep, and wide,
And then with a parting "good bye,"
The blacksmith went down to the river's side,
And hastily rowed away.

The mill owner worked full well and fast,
As he dug the stranger's grave,
And he leaned on his spade, as he finished the task,
When he saw something glitter and wave:

Saw it wave and shine, as a golden gleam
Shot through the shadows cold,
And glided downward, a sunny stream,
Into the dark, brown mold.

He followed the sunbeam, and took with care,
From the gloomy and shadowy grave,
A lock of soft, silken, shining hair,
That rippled and gleamed like a wave.

On his finger it curled in a shining band,—
The wierd-like, human thing!
And the trembling strokes of his faltering hand
Unloosed not the horrible ring.

"What do you hold in your hand, young man,
That keeps you so quietly there?"
The mill owner started, and saw by him stand
An old man with long, white hair.

"'Tis a lock of hair that I found in the grave
I've been digging out under you tree;—
And it curled on my hand in so light a wave,
It startled and terrified me."

"Let me take the hair," the old man said,
And then, very softly and low,—
"'Tis the mother's of this one who now lies dead;
She was buried here long ago."

Quietly back, now all undismayed,
He layed it again to its rest,
And soon the musical oak leaves swayed
O'er the dead, on her dead mother's breast.

A LEAP YEAR CORRESPONDENCE AND ITS RESULTS.

BY ALBERT O. ARTHUR.

SWEET CLOVER, June 4th, 1856.

Methinks I see a look of surprise as you gaze on this strange handwriting, and as you glance at the bottom of the page, find a mysterious name signed to solve the enigma. But be not scared, for indeed, my gentle friend, for although I am a perfect stranger to you, I have heard you spoken of frequently, and have felt a desire to become acquainted with you; and to-day I am lonely and feel like creating a diversion to relieve my this monotonous life of mine, and have hit upon this plan of writing a letter to you. You may deem me very imprudent and bold, but do not censure me too severely. Should you feel inclined to think lightly of this correspondence, let one thought of my loneliness be my apology for having given it life. Let me hope to receive an answer soon.

Despairingly me sad,

NELLIE CLIFFORD.

Thus ran a billet-doux, which Harry Ashton received on a balmy June afternoon, and as we introduce our story, had just finished perusing to his boon companion, George Eaton. It was a neat missive, written with great care and upon that bewitchingly pretty gilt-edged note paper, used by ladies only on extraordinary occasions. In one corner was penciled an opening rose. So neatly was it colored and imitated, that it might have been mistaken for a dewy, blushing June rose, fresh from its parent stem, and that the delicious odor which stole from the delicate, lilly-like page, was its natural fragrance.

"George, can you tell who this romantic Sweet Cloverite is? Look at the writing and see if you can recognize it," said Harry, tossing the letter to George.

"I should say impudent, instead of romantic. But Harry, I can't tell who Nellie is. She writes a pretty hand, don't you think she does?"

"Why, yes, rather pretty. I wonder if I could imagine her looks correctly by her writing. If so, she must be a perfect beauty."

"A country Peri, rather, who can wield the scythe, chop wood, and so forth. And who is accomplished in jumping fences, chasing after butterflies, and cutting up generally. Though were I to judge from the style I should say that it came from that little witch cousin of mine, who resides at Sweet Clover; but then the writing is so unlike. I am positive though, that she has a hand in the 'fun,' as I suppose they term it."

"What reasons have you for so thinking?"

"Why the very fact that I sent her our likeness and have mentioned your name in my letters is reason enough."

"Well, George, what had I best do; reply to the note, or let poor Nellie dwell in loneness?"

"Give a reply, of course. It will help vary the monotonous life of ours," said George, laughingly.

"Let us at it then, for we have no time to waste. You will please dictate, while I write."

Drawing his chair to the table, and taking the necessary implements, George and his friend fell to work in earnest, and after many a laugh and jest, signed, sealed and mailed as pretty a love note as was ever sent by post.

Some two weeks intervened between their reply and Nellie's next, which was alike the first in neatness; but the rose was in full bloom this time, and from its honeyed petals a cupid, like a keen archer awaiting his prey, peeped forth, while nesting closely to the stem were the words "kind friend." The young men admired the uniqueness of the rose so fervently that they came nigh forgetting the readable part of the letter, which, as before, Harry read:

SWEET CLOVER, June 20th, 1856.

"Romantic Nellie." So you think me romantic, do you, friend of mine? Well, I do not censure you for your opinion, Madam, I do appear so to you. But I will continue this correspondence, as you are so kind as not to consider me immodest. Received your favor last Friday, with much pleasure. I have not heard much of you, but what little I have heard has been in your favor.

Now, I am coming to a very difficult task: that of describing Nellie. I wish very much you had not requested it—for I am not pretty, according to my idea of beauty, although some persons (of very bad taste) tell me that I have pretty hair and several other features good; but it is all flattery, so forget it, and try to imagine a rather short girl, with dark hair, black eyes and dark complexion. Now, can you tell how Nellie looks?

I think this is a very dull place indeed; but I am getting used to it. I felt quite lonely when I came here—which was one year ago last March. Do you reside in L—. You see I do not know much of you. You must be contented to know as little of me, for were you to find out who Nellie is she would feel very badly. But I must close. I am writing this in school, and now must recite in Geometry. I hope in my next to be able to devote more time to you. So kind friend excuse briefness, and, if not too much of a task, answer soon.

Very truly,

NELLIE CLIFFORD.

"Yes, very truly, without the yours; but I suppose that and the proposal will come each in its turn. Now, George, can you tell how Nellie looks? Short girl, black eyes and raven hair." Harry spoke at random, as though his thoughts were with his unknown correspondent, and as he did so, unconsciously crumpled the letter, till it looked like so much waste paper.

George smiled at him, and replied, "She is a student at the Seminary, and I suppose, pent up from all mischief by the rigor of the principal, and who knows no other way of cutting up didos. Why, Harry, you look ill. Love sick, eh? Just see how that letter looks; you have spoiled the lovely rose. Has her cupid stolen your heart already?"

"No, George, nor never shall. I was thinking, that's all," and Harry laughed at his own thoughts, which, no doubt, were pleasant.

George hummed a merry tune as he walked up to the window and gazed upon the motley throng jostling along the thoroughfare. He stood there a moment, and then turned toward Harry and asked what he thought of a few week's recreation at Sweet Clover.

"Capital idea. Thought some of proposing it to you. Indeed, I shall be very happy to escape from the city's dust and heat for a short while. It is most unmercifully hot," and he wiped the perspiration from his brow, and a broad classic brow it was.

"Well, then," said George, "the matter is settled. You will will please answer Nellie, while I write a letter to my cousin, stating that I shall be at Sweet Clover in about a fortnight. I shan't tell her that you are coming with me; but say something about my friend's going East to visit some relatives. It will be an equivocation, and no more

"Anything you do will suit me, as long as Sweet Clover is in the subject," Harry replied.

We will here leave them—both intent on their letters—saying little and doing much.

* * * * * * * *

"Well, Grace, don't you think we have gone far enough," asked a young lady of her companion, as arm in arm they walked thro' a fragrant meadow, yet covered with the dew. "I am quite tired."

"Yes, Aggie, we have left home far in the background; but we might walk a little farther, till we reach that large elm yonder, whose cooling shade and the virgin turf beneath it seem to invite us to partake of their sweet repose. How hot the sun is. If it wasn't for this hat I should look like an octaroon."

"I don't think I can walk so far. Let us run, and see who can get there first."

Aggie had no sooner proposed it, than off they started; bonnets in hand, and elf-locks flying in profuse clusters.

"Oh, Aggie, you are beaten," exclaimed Grace, as panting, she threw herself upon the grass, beneath the elm, which was soon gained by Aggie. Here they lay like nymphs reposing in sylvan bowers. Aggie, gracefully resting her queenly head upon her small lilly-white hand, which was buried by the chesnut curls that clustered around her brow, and draped her fleecy neck and dimpled shoulders with bewitching beauty. Her full-souled eyes, were fixed upon Grace with a tender, languishing look. Grace was a brunette, with raven curls, a smiling, peach-like lip, and an eye of devilry. She was busy fixing the ribbons of her bonnet, they having become unfastened in the race. Of the two, it would have been hard to decide which was the most charming.

"Grace, don't the day seem long to you, with no school to attend, I am sure I don't know what to do?"

"Yes, somewhat, but they won't long, for you know Cousin Harry will be here soon. He is a good-looking, genial young man, and, Aggie, if you behave yourself I shall let you flirt with him."

"If you do, you will never see him again. So my cavalier ain't coming? I am sorry," and a merry twinkle shone in Aggie's eyes.

"George says nothing about his coming with him; but may be it is a trick, to take us by surprise. Oh, tell me, please, how your correspondence is progressing. It must be interesting," and Grace's laugh pealed out a tiny strain.

"Finely," Aggie replied, "only that he writes such dish cloth letters. This is his last one. You read it."

"Have you replied to this yet?" asked Grace, after perusing the letter.

"Yes. But oh! that just put me in mind of it. I must go to the village and mail it to day. Won't you take Zephyr and keep me company. It will be so pleasant."

"I will go if you promise to try the speed of Zephyr and Fawn. I am quite sure Zephyr is the fleetest."

"I'll promise. Come along," and jumping up from their grassy couches they proceeded homeward.

An hour later and they were seated on their noble steeds, arrayed in close-fitting, dark-green riding habit, prancing along the road toward the village. As soon as they lost sight of their homes, Grace exclaimed, "Now, for the race," and gently patting her horse, started off on a brisk pace. Aggie followed on closely. Gradually, faster and faster became the pace of the horses, till they reached a neck-breaking speed, which they kept for upwards of a mile, when Aggie's horse became unmanageable, and darted ahead at a tremendous gait, leaving Grace far behind, hidden from view by a heavy cloud of dust. Aggie screamed for help. The more she screamed, the faster grew the speed of her horse, till she seemed riding on the wings of the wind. On, on, by farms, houses, and over bridges, she almost flew, her hair unloosed and streaming, and her features pale as snow.

TELEGRAPH!

REPORTED BY THE N. Y. ASSOCIATED PRESS FOR THE DAILY SENTINEL.

Arrival of the Steamer Arabia.

NEW YORK, May 29.

The Arabia arrived at 7 o'clock this P. M. Her news is mainly anticipated via Halifax, but the details in regard to the Italian affairs are interesting.

The following are among Garibaldi's proclamations:

"The first is to the Neapolitan army; foreign insolence reigns over Italian ground in consequence of Italian discord, but on the day that Marti unites with the brethren of Sicily, you shall join the Italians of the north. On that day, our nation, of which you are the finest part, shall resume its place as in former times among the nations of Europe. I an Italian soldier, only aspire to see you drawn up side by side with those soldiers of Naresz and San Martino, in order jointly to fight against the enemies of Sicily.

Signed, G. GARIBALDI.

Another proposition is to the inhabitants of Naples:

It is time for you to imitate the magnanimous example of Sicily, by raising against the most impious of tyrannies. To the perjured and blood thirsty race that has so long tortured and trampled on you, let the free government succeed which eleven millions of Italians now demand, and substitute for the Bourbonic flag, the glorious tri-color, the happy symbol of national independence and unity, without which true and durable liberty is impossible. Your brethren of the North desire nothing so much as to see you free.

Signed, G. GARIBALDI,
G. RICARDI,
BARON FRACCO.

The following is Garibaldi's proclamation to the Sicilians:

SICILIANS:—I have brought you a body of brave men, who have hastened to respond to the heroic cry of Sicily. We, the remains of the battles of Lombardy, are with you, and all we ask is the freedom of our land. United, the work will be easy and short. To arms, then! He who does not snatch a weapon, is a coward or a traitor to his country. Want of arms is no excuse. We shall get muskets; but at present any weapon will do in the hands of a brave man. The Municipalities shall provide for the women, children and old men, deprived of their support To arms, all of you! Sicily shall once more teach the world how a country can be freed from its oppressors, by the powerful will of a free people.

(Signed,) GARIBALDI.

ST. PETERSBURGH, May 18th.—The announcement that England probably would not offer opposition to an inquiry by Russia into the situation of christians in Turkey, has given great satisfaction there.

Hong Kong dates, of March 29, state that Sir Hope Grant had arrived. Active preparations are being made for war, and the expedition north leaves early in April.

Washington Matters.

WASHINGTON, May 29.

The act of recommitting the Pacific Rail Road bill, together with the various amendments, to the Select Committee of the House to-day, is regarded as equivalent to its postponement for the present session.

The House Committee on Foreign Affairs, to-day, unanimously agreed to report the Senate bill appropriating $10,000 to Townsend Harris, for negotiating the treaty with Siam, which is intended as an acknowledgment for his valuable services to the commerce in the East.

The present of the United States Agricultural Society to the Japanese, consists of one hundred varieties of the principal cereals and vegetable seeds, with their botanical designations. Mr. Hatch's report on the Canadian Reciprocity Treaty, is not only strongly opposed to the main articles of agreement in that instrument, but the Administration are also reported against it and the treaty will be opposed upon the floor of the House.

The Secretary of State declines to comply with the call of the House for a copy of Hatch's report, on the ground that it would be incompatible with the public interests.

BY LAST NIGHT'S REPORT

Congressional Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, May 30—3. P. M.

HOUSE.—The House passed the bill for the removal of the arsenal at St. Louis to Jefferson city.

Mr. Fenton reported a bill providing that all invalid pensioners shall commence from the date of disability; the object being to place all army and navy pensioners on an equality, and remove from Congress the numerous applications continually made for back pay. He said this measure would require about a million and a half dollars for arrearages.

Several attempts were made to defeat the bill which was finally passed, 98 against 80.

Mr. Haskin's resolution, that hereafter no person shall be elected printer to Congress who is not a practical printer, and of fair reputation as to skill and ability, the printer to other House shall give bonds in $20,000, and reducing present prices 10 per cent. were defeated.

The minority report was read, concluding that M'Ford's contract with Marcood and English was in violation of the act of Congress, and declaring the office of printer to the House vacant.

Mr. Gurley introduced the bill for a government printing house, and

Mr. Clopton opposed it.

SENATE.—Mr. Seward appeared in his seat and was warmly greeted by many Senators of both parties.

The bill granting a pension to the widow of Col. Thos L. Harris, was passed.

Mr. Bissell presented a report from the majority of the committee appointed to investigate the charges of corruption against the printers of the Senate, accompanied by resolutions which he moved be printed.

Mr. King rose to make an explanation which was all cut short by a motion to take up the overland mail bills, which prevailed.

Mr. Gwin appealed to Mr. Hale to withdraw his substitute for the present in order to perfect the original bill.

The chair called up, the special order, being the Homestead Land Bill.

Mr Gwin moved a postponement in order to continue the consideration of the California route.

Mr. Fessenden objected.

Mr. Toombs hoped the motion would not prevail. If matters were left over in this way, and the Senate jumped from one subject to another, they would never be able to get through with the business.

The motion to postpone was carried—27 to 22.

Mr. Wade offered a resolution that during the remainder of the present session no Senator should speak more than 15 minutes, or more than once on the same subject.

Motion objected to.

Mr. Hale withdrew his substitute for the overland mail bill.

Mr. Latham offered an amendment authorizing the P. M. General to contract with the contractor on the route between St. Joseph, Mo., and Great Salt Lake, and between Salt Lake and Placerville for a semi-weekly mail. The distance to be done in twenty days, and not more than $462,000 to be paid per annum; also a contract for the transportation of printed matter and franked documents by steamship at not over $400,000 per year; also to contract for a daily mail by coaches, from April 1st to December 1st, and triweekly for the balance of the year, from Sacramento to Portland, Oregon, at not over $100,000 per annum; also to contract for a weekly mail from St. Paul, Minn., to the Falls of Oregon at not over $200,000.

Mr. Latham explained the provisions of his amendment. He spoke at length in favor of the Butterfield overland route, thinking Congress possessed no right to terminate the contract, except by exercising despotic power.

Mr. Chandler rose to a question of privilege. He found in the Globe of yesterday, language attributed to the Senator from Ind. (Fitch) in which he characterized him (Chandler) as grossly ignorant. He had not heard the language, but if it was used it showed the Senator incapable of appreciating the position which he held on this floor.

Mr. Fitch avowed the language and still thought it appropriate.

Mr. Chandler said when the P. O. bill again came up he would discuss it, and the question of ignorance would be then determined.

The Overland Bill was then postponed till Saturday.

The House bill for the admission of Kansas came up.

Mr. Collamer advocated it, and it was postponed till Monday.

The Oregon war debt bill was taken up, and Mr. Mace defended it as proper.

Others spoke on the subject, and Mr. Hunter moved an amendment authorizing a loan for the payment of the amount. Lost—ayes 11, nays 20. An amendment that all money paid under the act be to persons who actually did service and warrants assigned, was agreed to, and the bill passed, 31 against 19. It appropriates $3,400,000.

Adjourned.

Later from California.

ST. JOSEPH, May 30—9 P. M.

The Pony Express due on Monday, 28th, arrived here last night at 9 P. M., but brought no California mail, which is supposed to have been intercepted by Indians.

The only mail matter brought by it is from Salt Lake, at which place it arrived and left on the 24th inst. All the information we can learn in regard to failures is by the following note on the Salt Lake way bill, made by the agent:

Rider just in. The Indians have chased the men from the stations between Diamond Spring and Carson Valley. The machine in which the express matter is carried is lost.

The Indians are reported to have killed two riders on the last trip, and it is supposed that they carried off or destroyed the mail matter belonging to this express.

The news from Salt Lake is very meagre.

On the 17th, two men named Myron Brewer and R. Kirt Johnson, were both shot at once by unknown hands.

The distance from Salt Lake to St. Joseph, twelve hundred miles, was made in five days and seven hours.

The Pike's Peak Express, which arrived here this morning, furnishes the following summary of news:

DENVER CITY, May 24.—The mining operations are fairly commenced in Gregory's diggings. Most of the gulches are paying from five to fifty dollars per day to the man. But little doing at the quartz lead mines. The miners are waiting for the mills to work what is already out. Rich discoveries of boulder diggings, which are said to be much valuable, and known to resemble California quartz, have been made. The great excitement now is in the head waters of the Arkansas river, where gulches are reported to be yielding from twenty-five to one hundred dollars a day to the man. Thousands are going in that direction from the Blue. The advices are favorable; there is too much snow and the weather too cold for successful operations.

The special session of the Legislature, to take into consideration the cattle distemper, convened at noon to-day, when a communication was received from the Governor on the subject, which was referred to a joint committee of 14 of the House and 7 of the Senate.

The Governor estimates the number of cattle in the U. S. at 20,000,000; he urges the importance of checking the contagion; suggests a thorough investigation into the character of the disease; thinks that the transit of cattle through the several towns may require additional legislation; and leaves to the wisdom of the Legislature the subject of enlarging the number of the Board of Commissioners and of increasing their authority.

New England Anti-Slavery Convention.

BOSTON, May 30—9 P. M.

The New England Anti-Slavery Convention assembled in this city to-day. The attendance was quite large.

The Convention will remain in session two days.

THE MICHIGAN CENTRAL RAILROAD LEASED TO THE GRAND TRUNK COMPANY FOR 999 YEARS.—It is rumored, and probably with a certainty of its being true, that the Grand Trunk Railway company have leased of the Michigan Central Railroad Company, their road, ground and fixtures, for the term of 999 years. It was so stated by the officers of the Grand Trunk Company at a late meeting in London, and a full account of the condition of the lease, is said to have been published in the English papers. ## MONETARY.

WEDNESDAY, P. M., May 30, 1860.

Nothing new in monetary affairs has turned up since our last report. Exchange continues firm, and rather close, but in view of the rising markets at the East, and increased demand for breadstuffs, it is more than probable our exports will increase to such an extent as to produce a better supply, if not a reduction in the price. In yesterday's paper, a typographical error made us quote Exchange selling at 12¾, instead of ¾ premium.

There is no scarcity of Currency, and the regular houses take all the straight business paper offering.

ST. LOUIS MONEY MARKET.—In its money article the St. Louis Democrat of Monday, says:

There is universal quietness in moneyed circles, and, although many feel a pressure for want of returns which they should receive from their country debtors, there is money enough at bank for all the business paper offering. Returns from the far west are soon expected, which will give more ease to the money market.

Exchange is in but limited supply, and the demand, though fair, is not large. The following are selling rates:

| | For Gold, Eagle f'ds. | Bills. |
|---|---|---|
| Sight on the East..... | ¾ prem. | ¾ prem |
| Sight on New Orleans..par. | ¾ prem. | ¾ pr.m. |
| Cincinnati & Louisville..par. | ¾ prem. | ¾ prem. |

The rate of Eastern exchange at Chicago being ¾ prem. for currency, our brokers had to advance the rate to ¾ or ⅞ to 1 prem. to effect an over accumulation here of currency. Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Tennessee and Louisiana bank notes are taken as bankable funds.

The wheat market opened briskly to-day, at an advance of 1c, about 40,000 bus changing hands up to the close of 'Change. The ruling figures in the forenoon were $1,07 for No. 1 in store, $1,09 delivered, and $1,06 for No. 2. After the receipt of the New York report holders generally asked $1,08 for No. 1 in store, and $1,07 for No. 2, but the transactions at these prices were trifling, and the market closed very nearly as it did yesterday, sellers firm at the advance, but buyers rather shy in coming up to the scratch. The sales reported embrace 13,000 bus No. 1 afloat at $1,09, 3c freight to Buffalo, and 5,000 bus on board June 1st at $1,10. The millers were not buying to any considerable extent, and the sales of Club and Extra were light at a range of $1,09¾@$1,12 delivered.

There was considerable enquiry for flour, and between eleven and twelve hundred barrels were bought for shipment, but the sales being mostly on private terms we are somewhat at a loss in comparing the market with yesterday's. We should say, from what we could learn, that $5@5,15 would have been paid for ordinary to fair Extra, and $5,50@5,62½ for the choicest brands.

Wheat and flour absorbed all attention, and other articles were comparatively neglected.

The rates to Buffalo and Oswego on wheat are nominally 4 and 7½c. We heard no engagements of vessels.

Rates on flour by steam are as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| To Buffalo (nominal)..... | 25c ₱ bbl. |
| To New York..... | 60c do |
| To Oswego..... | 40c do |
| To Ogdensburgh..... | 40c do |
| To Boston, (via Ogdensburgh)..... | 80c do |

CHICAGO MARKET, MAY 30TH.—Receipts of the articles named, at Chicago, Saturday, were as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Flour, bbls..... | 1,036 |
| Wheat, bus..... | 7,000 |
| Corn, bus..... | 145,311 |
| Oats, bus..... | 2,254 |
| Rye, bus..... | 249 |

The Press & Tribune says:

The receipts of Corn to-day were heavy—146,311 bus—and the shipments only 66,000 bus. Notwithstanding this statement, however, the market opened with a good demand, partly speculative, and as soon as the New York dispatches were received, an advance of 1c was established, the market closing quiet and steady. About 100,000 bus changed hands, at 45¾c for No. 2 Mixed; 44½@45c for No. 2 Canal Mixed; 45¼@45¾c for No. 1; 43½@44¾c for No. 2; and 38c for Rejected in store. Under the influence of the improvement in the last two steamers, which was justified to-day by an advance in New York, the Wheat market opened very firm and sellers had every advantage—prices being fully 1c higher. Only about 25,000 bus were sold, at $1,04¾@$1,06 for No. 1 Spring in store, and $1,04@$1,04½ for No. 2 Spring—the latter market closing firm at the outside quotations. The flour market to-day was the scene of more activity, and about 2,000 bus changed hands at the previous decline—Spring Extras selling at $4,00@$5,25 for fair to choice. Other grades were considerably firmer, but buyers did not show any disposition to follow them up. The market for oats was quite dull to-day, and sales were limited at 31@32c on track. Rye is irregular—31@32c being the range of to-day's transactions. At the close there was more inquiry than for a few days past. Barley remains quiet, with but trifling receipts, and a correspondingly demand at 60@70c. Highwines steady, with sales at 19¾@19c for city manufactured.

An increase in the number of grain vessels in port has caused a decline of ¾c in freights—vessels being engaged at 4c for corn to Buffalo.

ST. LOUIS MARKET, May 26.—(From the Democrat of Monday.)—FLOUR—Inactive. Sales of 200 bags city superfine at $3,75; 100 bbls do at $3,85; 100 bags extra fine at $3,25@3,30; 100 bbls city fine at $2,50; 100 bgs country low grade at $3,40; 200 bbls city superfine, in lots, at $5,00, and 96 bbls country low grade at $4,60.

WHEAT—Market quiet but firm. Sales of 971 sacks club at $1,12@$1,14; 656 sks choice do p. t.; 203 sacks poor fall at 80c to $1,10; 39 sacks mixed at $1,12; 603 sks good fall at $1,35@1,40, and sales of prime and choice, not reported, at $1,40@1,55.

CORN—Offerings heavy and prices 5c lower. Sales of 1,820 sks mixed at 45@49c; 3,471 sks do at 50@52c; 1,318 sks mixed and yellow, part delivered, at 52½@53c; 1,880 sks yellow, part delivered, at 52@53c; 1,880 sks yellow Canada at 54c; 185 sks yellow and six white and mixed white at 54c; 165 sks yellow and mixed at 55c, delivered; 400 sks mixed white at 55c; 1,125 sks do at 56@57c; 350 sks yellow, mixed and mixed white at private terms; and 650 sks white, buge rene at, at 58c.

OATS—Sales of 1,130 sacks at 40c; 1,078 sacks at 41c; 400 sks at 41¾@44, including 6ks, and 245 sks pr 85c, sacks returned.

BARLEY AND RYE—Sale of 65 sacks spring barley at 60c. No sales of rye.

PROVISIONS—Several dealers from abroad were present, and the market was quite firm, but the only sales that transpired were 60 bbls mess pork at $11,75; 23 sks country bacon clear sides at 10¾c; 20 pkgs prime country lard at 11¼c. We quote city bacon shoulders at 9¾c; rib sides 9¾@10c; clear do 11c; hams 9¾@11¾c ₱ lb, for plain uncovered to fancy sugar cured.

DETROIT MARKET, MAY 28TH.—(From the Advertiser.)—FLOUR—The market to-day is reported scarcely as active as on Saturday. Prices nominally remain unchanged, but it is though that no round lots would today bring within 25c of what they would ten days since. In feed and corn we hear of nothing doing.

WHEAT—None in on street. No. 1 red is now offered at a decline of 2c, or at $1,25; but there are free buyers only at $1,18. We hear of nothing in relation to other grades.

COARSE GRAINS—Corn is held at 50c for small lots. Buyers are in the market at 45c. Oats are held from store at 34c, with nothing doing on street. Barley is steady at former quotations.

POTATOES—Few or none in to-day. Prices nominally unchanged.

BUTTER—Butter is dull at 8@9c for keg, and 12@14c for roll.

EGGS—Are steady at 10c by the bbl.

WOOL—A few lots are beginning to arrive. One of three-quarters blood merino was taken at 32c.

CLEVELAND MARKET, May 28th.—(From the Herald.)—The market in all kinds of grain is very dull, without any transactions of note, views of buyers and holders differing widely.

WHEAT—Holders are quite os firm at $1,30 for choice red, while buyers are offering only $1,25, and are scarce at that figure; choice white is held at $1,45@1,48, without buyers. The receipts of red are large, the greater bulk going in store.

CORN—Market nearly, with a decline of 3 to 5c; sale of 1 car on a former order at 50c. The local demand is light, and buyers must purchase at a figure which will leave them a margin between this and eastern market, which must bring it down to 45@48c.

OATS—Nominal at 37c, and light demand.

FLOUR—Common extras selling at $5,50@5,62½; choice do at $5,75@5,87½; XX from white wheat at $6,00@6,50. Rye flour $4,00@4,62½; Sales 75 bbls at 5,00@5,87½ for XX from red wheat; 25 do from white do at $6.

TORONTO MARKET, MAY 28TH.—(From the Globe.)—The receipts of grain on Saturday were light. Wheat—About 1,500 bushels were sold at from $1,35@1,43. Spring Wheat—Over 300 bushels were sold at $1,10@1,12. PEAS—About 275 bus were sold at from 62½@63c. OATS—300 bush at 32@33c. The receipts of barley were very small; about 125 bus realized 53@56c.

FLOUR FROM NEW WHEAT.—The New York Evening Post says that Messrs. Brewer & Caldwell received on Wednesday, per steamer Augusta, five bbls of flour from new wheat, grown on the plantation of W. C. Bancell, Esq., near Savannah, Ga., and manufactured at Savanah Excelsior Mills, Augusta, Ga. The flour was of good quality, and first of the season, and was sold by the brokers, Messrs C. Powell & Hebert, at $12 ₱ bbl. The flour was offered in the market at Augusta on the 18th inst, and the wheat was exhibited as early as the 15th. This is much earlier than usual; new flour and wheat having generally been seen in this market heretofore in the first or second week in June. Savannah has been a buyer of flour and oats in this market to a considerable extent during the past winter.

LUMBER—Business during the week has been unusually quiet for this season of the year, and all parties complain of dullness. In no previous week since the opening of navigation has there been so few country dealers in the city, and the orders received have been very trifling. The stock of dry lumber is small, and under ordinary circumstances, prices would be firm, but the limited inquiry and the anxiety of holders to realize renders the market weak. Common boards and fencing are selling generally at $8,00; but in some instances a reduction of 25@50c is made. Stock boards are rather scarce and they bring full prices. Upper qualities are scarce and in but little request.

The rainy weather which prevailed have caused a rise in the Illinois river—there being five feet three inches water on "Tree Top Bar" and shipments by the canal have been more liberal. This will probably continue, as the rise during the present week a number of buyers from the towns on the river, and thus cause a brisker trade.

The receipts of lumber during the past week were light, and the inquiry for cargoes was limited and the market rather dull and heavy at previous quotations. Sales were as follows: cargo of good Muskegon lumber, mixed, at $13,25; cargo of good Muskegon lumber, mixed, per Prop. Evan P., cargo of 2chrs. Speed, Monroe and Live Oak, mixed, from Muskegon, at $9,50; schr Wyoming, from Grand River, strips at $8,00 and $9,00; two cargoes of fair mixed lumber from Grand River, at $9,50 and $8,00; schr Little Bell, from Grand River, 80,000 feet strips at $6,75 and 10,000 feet boards at $8,00; schr Levant, from Grand River, 62,000 feet mixed at $6,75; 6000 feet joists at $6,00; and 20,000 feet strips at $7,00; schr Wm. Nagel, from Grand River, mixed at $7,00; schr Forester from Grand River, mixed at $8,00; cargo of Ash lumber from Grand River per schr Mary at $7,00; schr Ramsey Crook, from G. Bay, coarse boards and joists, at $6,50; brig Fashion, from Grand Bay, mixed, at $7,00; schr Bay State, from Green Bay, on p. t.; schr Drew, from Kalamazoo, mixed, at $9,50 and $8,75.

SHINGLES—The supply has been light, but the market is unchanged. Cargoes of Manitowoc shingles were sold at $1,50@1,75. A lot of 300,000 shingles from Point Sauble, were sold off the dock at $...@$1,75. Prime Rogue River shingles were sold at $3,50 per thousand.

LATH—Have been several parts of cargoes sold during the week at $1,00 per thousand, and the market is steady at that price.

Albany Lumber Market.

For the week ending May 23.

Lumber continues to come forward slowly, both from the North and the West, the shipments from Oswego being light on account of the recent advance on freights at $1 ₱ M. The supply from the Chemung district has been fair, and there is a good assortment of Chemung pine now in market. Pine Tally Board and one and a quarter inch Pine are the only kinds that are now difficult to be obtained, all other descriptions of lumber being in fair supply. Hard wood and white wood have been coming in freely from Buffalo, and the stock and assortments now here of these is good. The demand for lumber has been fair, and the market has ruled very firm.

Letters from Williamsport, Pa., state that the loss of logs by the recent freshet will probably reach thirty millions of feet. Enough has been saved to supply the demand from that section, though the loss will affect what effect prices, and will doubtless give a firmer tone to the market.

The receipts by the Erie and Champlain Canals during the third week in May, in the years named, were as follows:

| | Boards and Scantling, ft. | Shingles, M. | Timber, Staves, C. ft. | Lbs. |
